It is the first of the series The Adventures of Tintin. It was originally published in Le Petit Vingtième as Le Roman d'un artiste. Plot Tintin is sent to Siberia to investigate the disappearance of his friend Haddock. He is accompanied by Captain Haddock, a former naval officer of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, an unnamed criminal with a broken nose, and two British detectives. Their mission is complicated by the absence of a local police force and the visit of the German ambassador, who wants Tintin to pretend to be an undercover German agent. Reception Publishers Weekly wrote that it "has never been a stronger book". In the opinion of The New York Times, "it is a picture book, not a mere book of adventure". Adaptations A 1962 animated film based on this book, The Adventures of Tintin: The Secret of the Unicorn, was the first in a series of Tintin films produced by the French company Studio Lambert. It was nominated for the Palme d'Or at the Cannes Film Festival, and won the award for Best Foreign Language Film at the 1964 Academy
